Marcus Briggs Cloud, featured in the exhibit, was the youngest native speaker of the Muscogee language until he founded an immersion school that is raising a new generation of native speakers. He is currently a doctoral student at the University of Florida in Ecology.

Revitalizing Indigenous Languages, a video installation featuring community language programs from across the United States, is ongoing at the Museum.